Workshop Series

For Parents and Guardians with children ages 0-4

Writing

Writing is an important communication skill that children can start developing from birth. Before a child can write, they need to build many physical, cognitive and communication skills. This workshop will help you understand the various stages of writing and drawing and give you helpful hints and tips to encourage and support fine motor development in children.

Be ready to discover and play!

Reading

Reading with your child from birth is one of the best predictors of success later in life. Not only will they build their vocabulary, they will learn about the world that surrounds them and develop a positive attitude towards learning. This workshop will help you understand the importance of reading with your child, the stages of early literacy, and how to choose the best books for your child.

Today a reader, tomorrow a leader!

Talking Singing

Talking and singing with your child are important ways to help build your child's brain. By 3 years of age, 80% of a child's brain is already developed. A guest speaker from First Words will help you understand the importance of speaking your first language with your child and answer your questions about speaking more than one language in the home. This workshop will also cover the importance of music and singing and teach you a few new songs!

Be prepared to talk, sing and learn!

Playing

Children learn through play and they learn from everything they do. As a parent/guardian, you are your child's first teacher. This workshop will give you a better understanding of the importance of play and explore how to turn every experience into a learning opportunity for your child. You will leave with lots of ideas and resources to provide your child with a rich play environment in your own home.
